CONN BROTHERS

Lancaster, Ky.

Gov. Woodrow Wilson announced Tuesday night that he would cancel all speaking engagements excepting those arranged for Thursday and Friday until Col. Roosevelt is again able to take an active part in the campaign. This is a magnanimous act and points strongly to the manner of man the democratic aspirant for the presidency is.

The Hon. G. Oscar Letcher of Paducah Ky will address the Democrats of Garrard County on Oct. 19th at 2 o'clock at the Court House. Mr. Letcher is a very eloquent and forceful speaker. Come out Democrats and give him a rousing reception and hear a good old fashioned Democratic speech. The Republicans and Bull Moozers are respectfully invited. J. R. Mount, Chair.

Lancaster Defeated in Foot Ball Game.

Lancaster was defeated by the Stanford eleven on the former's ground by the score of 32 to 0.

The game being very interesting from start to finish, the feature of the game was the playing of Swope, Elmore, Lawson and Tindler for Lancaster, Joe and Spalding Hill for Stanford.

Severe Loss.

Mr. W. O. Rigney lost one of his handsome and valuable horse horses last week with colic. This is the second loss of a horse Mr. Rigney has suffered since last Christmas. and the loss is no light one, as aside from the trouble experienced in securing horses for this purpose, they are very expensive.

Becoming Dry.

Rain is needed badly, stock water is becoming scarce, cisterns getting low and the dust is almost intolerable. Wheat sown is also in need of showers. The tobacco men with the coming of sufficient rain to "make a season" will begin the stripping out of the splendid tobacco crop. The dry fall has been very conducive to the curing of tobacco, and one of the very best crops ever raised in the county is the result of the splendid conditions which have prevailed since the setting out of the crops.

Here's Your Chance Girls.

Postmaster West is in receipt of the following letter from Portland Col. and if any young lady in Garrard county, who is eligible wishes to take a chance Mr. West will be glad to furnish the name and address upon application:-- Portland Colorado, Oct. 7, 1912.

Postmaster, Lancaster Ky.

Dear Sir:-- As I am a young rancher in Colorado and girls are scarce here, I would like to correspond with some nice girls between the ages of 18 and 25, object, matrimony. Yours truly, X-X.

Young Man Injured.

Will Comely, a brother of Misses Stella and Grace Comely of the Record force had a hand severely injured last Thursday by having the member caught under a log which he was assisting in handling. The hand remained under the log about ten minutes before the help obtainable could manage to extricate it. No bones were broken but the hand was severely mashed.

New Store Room.

Mr. W. J. Romans has about completed the erection of a handsome store room adjoining the opera house on Richmond street. Mr. Romans has not as yet fully determined just what use he will make of the room, but as business property is in demand in Lancaster, he will have no trouble in disposing of it. The building is of brick with a handsome iron front and show windows.

Big Meeting in Louisville.

The International Convention of Disciples of Christ held their first session of the meeting in Louisville on Tuesday night. Their deliberations will continue throughout the week and comprise very interesting programmes, including addresses by the most eminent divines of the church. Thousands of delegates are in attendance from every state in the union, Canada and many foreign countries.

Enjoying Life.

Mr. Roy A. Haines a popular editor and politician of Hillsboro O. accompanied by his wife has been the guest of his father in law, Mr. W. B. Mason. Mr. Haines made the trip a distance of about 150 miles in his big touring car, crossing the Ohio river at Maysville Ky. He started on his return trip last Saturday, taking with him Misses Sue Shelby Mason and Katie Lee Denny who will remain for a few weeks the guests of Mrs. Haines.

Noted Farm Sold.

Col. Jack Chinn sold his fine 235 acre farm, the famous "Leonatus", yesterday to Bonta Bros. The price paid is said to have been $155 per acre. This farm is a fine one and one of the most celebrated stock farms in the blue grass region, and Col. Chinn sold it because he was getting too far along in years to give it the proper attention. The purchasers are widely known and clever gentlemen, who have made a most pronounced success as up-to-date farmers. -- Harrodsburg Leader.

A Musical Treat.

The musical department of the Woman's Club, of which Mrs. L. L. Walker is the chairman, will give a Musicales in the parlors of the Kengarian hotel this, Friday evening. The programme is an unusually interesting one in that it comprises old music and songs exclusively, the songs of long ago, songs we all love. Prof. J. W. Ireland of Stanford, Miss Daniels, who is the guest of Miss Joan Mount, Mrs. L. N. Miller, Mrs. J. W. Sweeney and Mr. J. M. Farra are on the programme, while the music will be furnished by Misses Welch and McRoberts, Refreshments.

Boy Scouts.

The Boy Scouts that was recently organized by F. M. Tindler as Scout Master and W. R. Bastin Assistant, entertained their Council to a lunch in the rooms of the National Bank last Friday night.

Sufficient number were present at the first meeting to form a patrol and Will Rice Amon was chosen leader. At their last meeting, new members were added and Glass Carrier was selected as leader of Patrol No. 2. The boys are very enthusiastic and if the pledges are judiciously kept it will result in much good to the individuals, as well as the community at large.

Who Can Beat This?

In a locality embracing one half block in this city dwells four families, the heads of whom are all comparatively young men, which comprises in the aggregate 28 children. Immediately west of the Methodist church on Stanford street lives Rev. Pollitt, who can boast of 7 young hopefuls, immediately adjoining him is Harry Crutchfield, the efficient miller at the plant of the Garrard Milling Co., with an equal number, just across the street is Chief of Police Luther Herron with seven and immediately east and adjoining him is Mr. William Conn with seven more. We venture to say this record cannot be beaten within the same area.

Successful Meeting.

The New Antioch Christian Church of this county has been greatly edified and strengthened by a series of meetings conducted by E. C. Lacy of Junction City, Tenn. There were 22 additions in all, including some of the best people in that section, fathers and mothers among the number so that the membership is strengthened as never before.

We cannot speak too highly of Bro. Lacy's work among us. As a speaker of the word he is strong and forceful and presents the truth in a fearless lovable manner. His personal work was done vigorously and untiringly and as a result he leaves a stronger body of people, a people fully awakened to their responsibilities at home and in the church and a people appreciative of his work as a messenger of God.

Stable Changes Hands.

Mr. J. T. Rainey has assumed possession of the Sweeney stable and has retained the service of Mr. James R. Pierce, who for many years has been connected with Mr. Sweeney in the livery business.

New Real Estate Dealer.

Mr. H. C. Bailey the coal dealer has embarked in the real estate business and already has listed a number of desirable pieces of property both farming and town. With Mr. Bailey's extensive acquaintance and connection in eastern Kentucky, he will probably be able to place a great many pieces of Garrard county real estate.

"Straws Indicate Which Way The Wind Blows."

On one of the fast trains on the Knoxville branch of the L & N railroad running into Louisville, we are informed by Mr. H. C. Kauffman who was returning from London, a travelling man, who by the way was a adherent of Col. Roosevelt, on last Monday took a straw vote. The result was 10 for Taft, 10 for Roosevelt and 27 for Wilson, this comprised the voters in the coach in which the vote was taken. This is about the percentage everywhere.

Mat Cohen To Remain.

Mrs. Nannie Hedden, sister of Mat S. Cohen, the popular saddle horseman, has received a telegram from her brother that he had decided not to accept the $5,000 position with the Corbyville Distillery, at Corbyville, Canada. At first Cohen thought that he would like the fat job up in Canada, but when the time came to go, he appeared to be weakening on the proposition that would take him so far away from his friends and relatives here in Kentucky and out of the saddle horse business. The telegram he sent was a typical 'Cohen' one. It follows: "Have declined British Columbia offer and am returning to fight for, with and against the boys at home." -- Ex.

Can't Keep A Spurrel On The Ground.

It is as natural for Ed Walton to be in the newspaper harness as it is for fish to be in the water. After closing out his interests in Florida and returning to Kentucky, he at once began to cast about for a location. He bought the Somerset Times from Cecil Williams, but finding the field crowded and seeing an opportunity to close out at a profit he did so, and sought pastures new. He has now purchased an interest in the Richmond Climax and has already assumed active charge. Mr. A. D. Miller who has been the editor of that sheet will retire to his farm and endeavor to recuperate his failing health, still however, retaining a financial interest in the Climax. The Climax already a splendid weekly under the masterly guidance of its new editor will forge rapidly to the front in Kentucky journalism.

H. G. Sandifer Sr. Former Resident Of Lancaster And Prominent In Business And Social Circles In Danville Dies On Banks Of Hanging Fork.

On last Saturday morning a colored youth named Harlan found the body of Mr. Henry G. Sandifer Sr. of Danville Ky. cold in death on the banks of Hanging Fork near the bridge on the old Danville pike. A bucket of freshly caught minnows were near the body, which he had apparently stopped to rest after catching, when the death summons came. The young negro hastened to Hedgeville from whence a telephone message was sent to Danville and an automobile containing Sheriff Fox and other friends of the deceased hastened to the scene and removed the body to his home. Mr. Sandifer left his home about six o'clock Saturday morning bent on a days fishing, of which sport he was passionately fond, and the body was not found until near noon.

Mr. Sandifer was a native of Lancaster, but many years ago removed to Danville and for forty six years has been connected with the Boyle National Bank and for the past fifteen years has been the cashier of that institution; he was connected with many of the other business enterprises of Danville. He was a member and active worker in the Methodist church and was one of the most prominent Masons in Kentucky, being past Eminent Commander of the Grand Commandery of the state, and one of the most efficient teachers of Masonry in the state. The high esteem in which Mr. Sandifer was held in Danville was evidenced by the vast outpouring of people to his funeral, which was held at the Methodist church in Danville on Monday afternoon and which was conducted by the Danville lodges, supplemented by Masons from all over the state, nearly 400 being in the funeral march; a hush seemed to pervade the entire community, the streets along the line of march were thronged with people, high and low, rich and poor alike, with bowed head and downcast eyes, mourned the loss of no good and true a man.

Mr. Sandifer was sixty seven years of age. He is survived by his wife and one son, Henry G. Sandifer Jr. of Danville. He was a cousin to Mrs. E. W. Harris, Mrs. W. L. Lawson and Mrs. S. B. Henry of this city.

Democrats you are taking too much for granted.

We have reiterated this fact to you during the present campaign, time and again. The election of Wilson & Marshall seem assured. BUT, nothing in this world is actually sure, save death and taxes. There is a universal feeling that "we are going to win anyway" and there is no necessity for a campaign fund. Don't you believe it. There never was a wagon that would run without greasing, no more will the grand old democratic band wagon, it must have grease, it is running, but in order to keep it going it must be greased. Self confidence upon the part of the democratic party, upon the part of the democrats of the country individually will not keep this campaign moving. The warfare must be made aggressive and must be incessant, the enemy must be assailed upon all sides and unceasingly, and in order to do this, funds must be had. There are no corporations financing Woodrow Wilson's campaign, there are no steel trusts or trusts of any description to dump uncounted millions into the coffers of the campaign committee; the campaign is being financed by the great common people, by popular subscription; and sad to relate, owing entirely to this feeling of overconfidence, the finances are not nearly what they should be, and it has become necessary to send out an urgent appeal for more funds. Only about one third the amount of money needed for the actual and necessary expenses of the campaign have been subscribed; thousands of democrats, who if they thought it necessary, would give and give liberally, have not given a cent. It is necessary, better to give now than to regret not giving later. This money will be put to good use, not wasted, help, with a dollar, or more if you can, but help. Come in and give chairman J. R. Mount something to help along towards a democratic victory which is within our grasp if we will only seize it.

It is a shame that the geographical center of Lancaster with the possibilities for becoming a "City beautiful" which it has, should present the dilapidated appearance which it does. The "park" is capable of being made a thing of beauty, an ornament to the city, but instead of being such, it is a veritable eye sore. The "Civic League," an organization composed of the good ladies of the town, desires to take this centrally located plot in charge and make it presentable, to make of it an ornament to the community instead of the haven for idle urchans and stray dogs, which it now is.

We are reliably informed that some months since the city agreed to donate a sum, something like $500, for this purpose, that an order to this effect is now really upon the council books of the city; if the county would donate a like amount and this aggregation sum would be supplemented by a like amount by the ladies, which we understand would and could readily be done, the park, and also the public square could be placed in a first class and presentable condition. The only drawback seems to be the fact that there is a controversy as to the ownership of the "park", and a suit now pending in the Garrard circuit court to settle this controversy. Now that the possibility of this site ever being used as the seat of the Government building has been obviated by the Government purchasing elsewhere, the opportunity for any monetary value ever accruing to either the town or the county from the property has vanished into thin air; then why not resolve the suit into a friendly one, let Judge Chas. A. Hardin pass upon the question, let this settle the matter, and turn the plot over to the good ladies, together with liberal donations, and we may rest assured that they will do the rest.

No sane or evenly balanced person would attribute the attempted assassination of ex-President Roosevelt to any other cause than to the diseased state of mind of some crank, which is clearly the condition of the man Schrank, who fired the shot which was intended to take the Colonel's life. It is the height of folly to ascribe this state of mind to the utterances, of any particular person; it is true that in the height of the campaign there are many utterances made which are calculated to incite the mind of the more inflammable class, nor are these utterances confined to any particular party or representative, with all due deference to him, the Colonel himself is not any too overly guarded in his utterances. These words falling from the lips of campaign orators are taken up by these diseased minded beings, contorted magnified, thought over until they already badly balanced brain gives away and they conceive it their duty to correct the imagined wrongs, the result is murder or attempt to murder.

It is unjust and the height of folly to place such a crime at the door of any party, or to the utterances of any of the leaders of the party; Mr. Roosevelt we do not believe would utter one word that would cause harm to fall upon the head of Mr. Taft or Mr. Wilson, no more would one of these gentlemen give voice to an utterance that would redound to the injury of Mr. Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt is the victim of being a great man, a famous man; the cause of which led to the death of our latest martyred president, the beloved McKinley, of the greatest Mayor Chicago ever knew, Carter H. Hamilton. Sr both of whom fell by the hand of an assassin and crank, just such as attempted the life of Col. Roosevelt.

School Fair A Success In Every Particular And Speaks In Glowing Terms Of The Rapid Strides Made In Late Years In The Schools Of The County.

The School Fair held at the court house on last Saturday was a success beyond the fondest expectations of all concerned in its promotion. An immense crowd was attracted to hear the efforts of the children, and everyone was favorably impressed by the progress made by the pupils of the various schools of the county. The exhibits were of the highest order, not only those along educational lines, but in farm products, needle handicraft and many other things that are calculated to be useful in after life, showing conclusively that the splendid corps of rural teachers of Garrard county are making every effort to prepare their pupils to become useful men and women in the future. The map drawing showed a knowledge of the geographical, topographical and geological status of our state which is equalled by very few of their elders, the maps being well executed, colored and the various resources if the state properly charted thereon. 6. Hon. J. W. Newman State Com. of Agriculture spoke most enthusiastically on the "Farm in the School", and spoke words of praise of the boys exhibit of corn, also of the boys and judges.

7. Hon. McHenry Rhodes State Supervisor of High Schools of Frankfort addressed the audience on the "Practical Side of Our Modern Education".

Prof. Calfee of Berea addressed the audience, his subject being "The Power Of The Teacher". His remarks were very interesting.

The success of the Fair is in a great measure due to Misses Stella Hendren and Margaret O'hearn, the Vice president and Secretary, respectively, who were untiring in their efforts in behalf of the occasion; and they were ably assisted by every teacher in the county, all taking the greatest possible interest in the preparations, and that all were amply repaid for their interest is proven by the wishes heard expressed on every side that the affair be made an annual one, and that it be allotted more than one day and the scope materially increased.

Until the "Fair" was given, no attempt upon a general scale has ever been made to show to the people of the county just what was being accomplished in the rural schools, each district has had its Friday afternoon exercises, which as a usual thing do not attract many visitors. The Fair, to use a common expression, fairly opened the eyes of the people to the progress of the schools; it fully demonstrated that an able superintendent having under his charge a willing, earnest and faithful corps of teachers, was doing everything possible to advance the cause of education in the county, and that their efforts were being abundantly rewarded.

It is to be hoped that we shall have a School Fair every year, that more time will be devoted to it, that the list of exhibits will be materially increased and there is not a merchant or business institution in the county who will not be willing to contribute liberally to the premium list.

Col. Roosevelt Shot. Attempt Made On Life Of Ex-President As He Entered An Automobile In Front Of A Milkwaukee Hotel.

On Monday evening as Col. Theodore Roosevelt was entering an automobile in front of the Gilpatrick hotel in Milwaukee, Wis. preparatory to going to the Auditorium where he was to make a speech, a man in the crowd fired a revolver point blank at him the bullet entering his right breast and lodging in the fleshy tissues. The wound inflicted was thought to be slight and the doughty ex-president proceeded on his journey and made his speech before having the wound dressed. The man was quickly overpowered and hustled to a cell in the police station. Col. Roosevelt himself urging the angered crowd who were crying "lynch him", to avoid any act of violence toward the man.

The prisoner told the police after an hour's examination that he was John Schrank, of 370 East Tenth street, New York. He had on his person a copy of the Colonel's itinerary, written on a sheet of note paper taken from the Bismarck Hotel and cafe Nashville, Tenn.

The would-be assassin is five feet five inches in height, weighs 170 pounds, light complexion, bald and fairly well dressed. He confessed to the police that he fired the shot and made the remark:

"Any man looking for a third term ought to be shot."

A written proclamation found in the clothing of the man who did the shooting reads:

"September 15, 1912. September 15, 1901, 1:30 a. m., in a dream I saw President McKinley sit up in a monk's attire in whom I recognized Theodore Roosevelt. The President said 'this is my murderer, avenge my death.'"

"September 12, 1912, 1:30 a. m., while writing a poem, some one tapped me on the shoulder and said: 'Let not a murderer take the presidential chair. Avenge my death.'"

"I could plainly see Mr. McKinley's features. 'Before the Almighty God, I swear this above writing is nothing but the truth.'"

Another note found in the man's pocket read:

"So long as Japan could rise to the greatest power of the world despite her surviving a tradition more than 2,000 years old, as Gen. Nogi so nobly demonstrated, it is the duty of the United States of America to uphold the third term tradition. Let every third-termer be regarded as a traitor to the American cause. Let it be the right and duty of every citizen to forcibly remove a third-termer. Never let a third-term party emblem appear on the official ballot."

"I am willing to die for my country. God has called me to be his instrument, so help me God."

"INNOCENT GUILTY."

Written in German: "A strong tower is our God."

The man had followed Col. Roosevelt from New York, to Charleston, New Orleans, and many other cities seeking an opportunity to kill him, but seems not to have found it until he reached Milwaukee. Col. Roosevelt's physicians state that the wound is a superficial one, that the ball did not penetrate the abdominal wall, that the lungs are not touched and no serious results are apprehended.

Later: The injury sustained by Col. Roosevelt is more severe than was at first reported, though no danger is anticipated, unless some complications should arise. The bullet is reported lodged against the fourth rib on the Colonel's right side. His secretaries have made the announcement that Col. Roosevelt would make no more speech during the campaign. He was removed to Mercy Hospital Chicago where the most noted surgeons in the country led by Dr. John Murphy are attending him.

$12,000. In Bonds Voted By The Citizens Of Lancaster For The Purpose Of Water Works Improvements To Be Expended Now And Hereafter.

Of Water Works Improvements To Be Expended Now And Hereafter.

In November 1911

taxpayers of Lancaster voted an issue of $12,000, for the improvement of the water system of the city. We believe that it was the general understanding of the public at the time they voted these bonds that it was contemplated going to Dix river for a full and adequate supply of water, but it seems that after a thorough investigation, that the city council have determined that this step was impossible with the amount of money at their disposal, and they have adopted the next best method, which we will attempt to detail to the people who "pay the freight", and we sincerely hope that their efforts may prove successful and their plans may prove acceptable to the people of the community. First, they propose to raise the present dam at the water works by the addition of six feet to the present dam; for this purpose they have two bids from Mr. Mohnahan of Richmond Ky., one of $2600, and one of $2800, the difference in price being caused by the different manner in which they propose to make the proposed extension, upon which they have not yet determined. The heightening of the dam will provide twice the amount of water which the present reservoir now holds, and it is thought will supply the city with all the water which it is thought will be necessary, not only for present, but for all future purposes. This dam is to be thoroughly strengthened and reinforced and it is thought will hold all the water which will accumulate in the reservoir thus provided.

Immediately below this dam is to be constructed a new and modern filter with a capacity of from 100,000 to 150,000 gallons of filtered water per day with a guarantee of 98 per cent purity; this filter is to be 13 feet long, 6 feet in depth and about 6 feet in diameter; it is to be provided with 200 strainers, a coagulating basin and all the appliances known to modern science for the providing of pure water and is to be thoroughly guaranteed by one of the most reliable construction companies in the country to be as represented.

In addition to these two named improvements, the city has purchased of Mr. W. T. West for the sum of $450, a lot in the rear of the old post office building, on the Bradley lot, a plot of ground 50x50 feet, upon which they will erect a "water tower". This tower is to be a steel tank 20 feet in height, 22 feet in diameter with a capacity of 100,000 gallons, mounted upon a latticed steel platform which brings the entire height of the structure up to 140 feet, and the pressure therefrom will throw water over the tallest building in the most remote confines of the city, and with pressure to spare. This tower will prove a great saving to the city in the operation of the water plant, in the first place, it can be filled every day with a few hours pumping at the power house, which will obviate the necessity of keeping two, a day and night engineer, one man being able to do the work, and in case of fire, or for any unforeseen reason, will be compelled to work a few hours longer at the pumping station, but under any and all circumstances the work may easily be done by one man.

The amount of coal consumed at the plant during the year is about 12 cars, which costs about $90, per car laid down at the plant, this will easily be cut in half, under the new system proposed, it will not take one half the amount of fuel. Thus if the plans of Supt. Herron and the council prove out as they contemplate, it will result in a net saving to the city of from $800. to $1000. per year.

We sincerely hope that the most sanguine plans of the gentlemen may be realized and that within the course of a very few years the entire indebtedness of the city may be wiped out.

British Cows Which Eat Fish.

Dried codfish, unsalted, is eaten by the inhabitants of the Faroe Islands (between Shetland and Iceland) or their cows, says a consular report. The fish, which is of the cod type, is considered good for cows, as it enables them, it is stated, to yield an ample supply of rich milk. The dried fish is not cooked before being eaten; it is merely laid on stones and then pounded with stones or hammers.

PLAN CUT OUT

1913 TOBACCO

Organization Formed In Kentucky To Increase Price Of Tobacco

APPEAL TO OTHER STATES

To Co-operate With Growers of Kentucky in Their Effort to Obtain Living Prices for the Product of their Land and Labor.

An Appeal to Farmers:

On October 1st, there met in the Phoenix Hotel, Lexington, Ky., a small band of farmers from less than a dozen counties. They met for the purpose of discussing a cut out of the 1913 tobacco crop.

On account of the busy season many large producing counties were not represented, but several of them sent encouraging messages. After due deliberation it was agreed to organize the "Early Protective Society" and to push the cut out movement for all it is worth.

Mass conventions were advised for the various counties on Saturday, October 12, and a general convention of the growers at Lexington, Ky., was ordered for Wednesday, October 16th. The county mass conventions are to select delegates to represent them at the general convention on the 16th.

A committee, composed of representatives from Bath, Franklin, Scott and Owen counties, was selected for the purpose of preparing "An Appeal" to growers, and the following is the result of their labors:

An Appeal To Farmers.

Never since the tobacco question became an acute issue has the situation presented a more serious or menacing front to growers than the one they are now facing. For the first time since 1906 the farmers are wholly unorganized. A pool, for the present, is out of the question. Single handed and alone they must face the enemy, combined, tactful and greedy, and licensed by the highest law of the land to continue their game of wolf while dressed in the garb of lamb.

There is no protection for the farmer other than that which he himself provides. Although he is numbered by the tens of thousands, and the buyers can be numbered by the fingers on one hand, yet this mighty host must bow in humble submission before the haughty oligarchy, and accept the crumbs from its hands.

If the market were free and competitive, if the law of supply and demand had not been suspended by the trust arbitrarily fixing prices, the growers could have some reasonable assurance of fair dealing and living prices. But there is no such market, and the law of supply and demand is nothing but a shadow.

Let us look the facts squarely in the face. Here are just a few:

The 1905 crop averaged less than 7 cents.

In 1906 first pool organized.

In 1907, over 52,000,000 pounds added to first pool.

In 1908, crop practically cut out.

In November, 1908, Burley Tobacco Society sells its entire holdings at 17 cents. Mind you, this was after the cut out of that year.

In 1909, over 100,000 pounds pooled—more than both pools of 1906 and 1907.

In 1910 and 1911, two crops grown and neither pooled. Average net price to growers in 1909, 7 1/2 cents; in 1910, 7 cents; in 1911, about 7 1/2 cents.

In 1910, when the pooling movement was hanging in the balances, representatives of the trust and warehouses killed it dead as a mackerel by paying .12 to 14 cents to certain large growers and wealthy land owners scattered throughout the Blue Grass section.

Immediately following the failure of the 1910 pool, the American Tobacco company publicly proclaimed its determination to buy the crop at 8 cents. History shows that it made its word good, with an extra cent added to the profit side of its ledger. In the suit of the Eschely Tobacco company against the Burley Tobacco Society, it alleges that burley tobacco is only worth 8 cents a pound, and in that suit it asked that the society be compelled to refund the difference between 8 cents and 17 cents. These declarations on the part of the manufacturers show clearly their purpose and determination to make 8 cents the maximum figure. They are willing to pay the growers, but a certain amount of business acumen (aided possibly by innate selfishness) has so far prevented them from naming a minimum price they are willing to pay, and which they frequently pay, for this same tobacco.

There is not an intelligent, well-to-do farmer in this state who is willing to grow tobacco at such prices, and under such conditions as above set out. It costs more to grow it now than it did ten years ago. Lands, labor and all material that figure in the growth of tobacco have advanced during that period from 50 to 100 per cent. The price of everything we eat and wear has increased in like proportions. If 7 and 8 cents were living prices ten years ago (and they were not) then 14 to 16 cents is not too much to demand now. Farmers must get something like this if they expect to prosper.

But the one thing which this committee desires to impress on the growers is the importance of organization. However plain the facts, nothing can be accomplished without it. In our judgment, the only thing for us to do now is to urge a cut out of the next crop. We know positively that it was the cut out of 1908 that saved the fight of the growers against the trust. We knew it was the cut out that made us a price 17 cents, and we know there is a vast difference between 7 cent tobacco and 17 cent tobacco. We know there is more clear profit in one crop at 14 cents, than there is in three crops at 8, or even 9 cents, for we firmly believe that these figures mean an actual loss to both tenants and landlords.

We have faith in the good sense and patriotism of the people, and make an earnest appeal for due and careful consideration of this question.

We also realize that the work must be done speedily in order to thwart our enemies, who, if this movement grows in popular favor, will again send their agents into the field to pay handsome prices to a favored few, and thus lull the majority into a hopeful but false confidence that they too, will get this good price.

In order to arrive at the will of the people, we urge the people of each county to hold mass conventions on Saturday, October 12, and that they select delegates to attend the Lexington convention on Wednesday, October 16th.

If the movement does not gather sufficient strength by this date to indicate that a successful fight can be made, then we know of nothing further to suggest, and the growers must be left alone, each to fight his own battles.

(The above report was adopted, and is ordered printed.)

A. W. WALDEN, Chairman, Owensville, Ky.

VALUE OF THE LITTLE BIRDS

They Labor Incessantly In Fields, Destroying Many Injurious and Destructive Insects.

The birds are the best friends that the farmer has. Why? Because they labor daily in the farmers' fields, destroying the insects that destroy or feed upon the tender plants of the fields. Have you a friend that will labor in your fields daily destroying these insects just for his board and clothing? No, indeed; you cannot place your eyes upon but one friend that will do this for you. That is the little birds which are being slaughtered by you in large numbers. Why do you not try to protect these friends who are so faithful to you, when they ask you for no pay for services rendered you in your fields, destroying insects that injure your plants, simply because you have not stopped to think over the matter as you ought to. Do you not realize that they are worth hundreds of times more to you as insect destroyers than their flesh is worth to you in a bird pie or in some other way?

Farmers, it is time to wake up to the fact that these little bird friends must have better protection. Why? Because they are needed more and more every year. As people increase and the clearing of more lands increases, the insects are bound to increase very rapidly, because they feed mostly from the farmers' fields. As insects increase, why should not the birds increase also? Simply because they haven't had the protection that they ought to have had. Some of the species of birds that used to be found in large numbers are now very seldom found at all, simply because they have not received any mercy from the hunter, and because the laws are not strict enough on this one special thing.

Every farmer should feel it his duty to urge his lawmaker to do all in his power to pass a law that would give his little friends in feathers better protection. A law should be passed in states having no such law, prohibiting the killing of these birds under a heavy penalty and imprisonment for violation thereof. If this were done, you would see a great improvement in crops and fewer insects. Good enforcement depends largely on farmers.

MACHINE TO KILL SPROUTS

Apparatus Invented by Missouri Man to Destroy Second Growth in Very Effective Manner.

The Scientific American, in describing a vehicle adapted for use on land cleared of timber, says:

This invention pertains to agricultural machines, and the aim is to provide a growth destroyer more especially designed for use on land that has been cleared of timber, to destroy the sprouts or returning second growth in a very simple and effective manner. For this purpose use is made of a wheeled vehicle adapted to be moved over the ground and provided with a revolvable beater, having flexible arms adapted to forcibly strike and cut off the growth at or near the ground surface. The illustration shows a sectional side elevation of the apparatus.

Breaking the Colt.

The earlier the colt is made used to the harness, the better broken the animal will be when it comes time for him to do some light work. It is easier to keep colts from learning bad tricks than to break them of such habits. For that reason have every strap and rope used by the colts so strong that there is no danger of a break. Once a colt finds out that he can get away from the halter or other parts of the harness there will be trouble, perhaps for all time.

Eliminates Hard Work.

The hardest work any farm horse ever performed was to furnish power for the old-fashioned horse-killing threshing machine. The gasoline engine has stopped that species of cruelty.

The Editor's Advantage.

Did you ever stop to think of how many more whacks the editor gets at his victim than any other business man in town does. With the editor the whacking process lasts from the cradle to the grave. When a person is born, even before the preacher gets a chance to baptize him, the editor has congratulated the happy parents and has specified in extravagant phrases the weight, sex and pedigree of the new arrival. At the christening the editor often manages to squeeze out a personal item of interest to his readers which is far better than the preacher can do, for he has to charge up his labors to the Lord, who is far harder to get cash out of than a subscriber. When the victim graduates from the town High School the editor generally expects to reap about a column of good reading matter and often prints a picture. Then if the victim gets married, the preacher gets five dollars and the editor gets twenty-five dollars' worth of surprise for his readers. When Mr. Victim gets sick the doctor gets a faint chance of some day collecting a bill against him, but the editor has some cash news every day, telling the patient's "many friends" how he is getting along. And then if he dies, the editor gets the most valuable news of all. Not that he is ever glad of the misfortune, but the news is worth money to him just the same. Maybe the undertaker gets a little more than the editor, but it is the only chance he has had at the victim during his whole career, while the editor has been pulling something out of him all the time.

Tobe Moseley has had a window light put in at his house. Now Miss Ross can knock on the window pane at Yam Sim's when he passes.

The Dog Hill Preacher had on another clean shirt Sunday. Poffe Eazley says it is a mystery to him how some people can dress so well.

Just before a fishing or hunting party gets ready to leave for the scene one of the fellows invariably appears with a long face and says he'll have to back out.

White Raz Barlow was over to see Miss Fannie Allison Sunday evening. He enjoyed some funny moving pictures by turning the pages in the family picture album right fast.

Miss Flutie Belcher heard someone scuffling their chicken roost Tuesday night, but did not go out to see who was, as she did not want Sidney Hopkins to see her with her hair rolled up.

Dock Hicks, who has gained much notoriety as a dentist during his leisure hours at the blacksmith shop, mixed business with pleasure yesterday by pulling a large tooth for Miss Gondola Flestep.

Poke Easley had his picture made while over at Tickville a few days ago. It is a very good resemblance of Poke, but there is a little blur around the necktie, he having swallowed just as the camera went off.

Jefferson Potatoes

is again in our midst, having returned this week from an absence of several days in the Calf Hills neighborhood. He brought back a good cow whose former ownership is clouded in mystery.

The editor of the Tickville Tidings is at sea over the workings of the new law which requires all editors to state under oath who owns their printing plant. He doesn't know who owns the Tidings, as it has never been paid for.

There was an interesting contest at the Rye Straw store this week, as to who could keep a feather up in the air the longest by blowing it. One of the feather had got directly over one of Mrs. Tobe Moseley's conversations she would have won the prize, Tobe says.

Ellick Wellwanger was the party of the first part in a shooting affray at the Hog Ford moonshine still house Saturday afternoon. However, he got the advantage of his opponent, and fired at him several times in succession under the plea of self-defense. One of the shots would have struck a lady a few yards away, but fortunately "Cricket Hicks was in the bullet's pathway and stopped it.

Columbus Allison, had he had the advantages of earlier training, might have become a sleuth equal to the Deputy Constable. As it is, he is still possessed of a pair of keen eyes and considerable shrewdness. Friday morning he saw the track of a mink in his back yard near the chicken roost, and getting a pencil and paper he copied it off and started out through the Glimet creek bottoms in search of the owner. After hunting for many hours, and examining several minks, he at last was rewarded with success, having found the animal it fitted, and returned home with him.

Doctors Use This for Eczema

Dr. Evans, Ex-Commissioner of Health, says: "There is almost no relation between skin diseases and the blood." The skin must be cured through the skin. The germs must be washed out, and so salves have long ago been found worthless. The most advanced physicians of this country are now agreed on this, and are prescribing a wash of wintergreen, thymol and other ingredients for eczema and all other skin diseases. This compound is known as D.D.D. Prescription for Eczema.

R. E. McRoberts & Son.

Dr. Holmes, the well known skin specialist writes: "I am convinced that the D.D.D. Prescription is as much a specific for eczema as quinine for malaria. I have been prescribing the D.D.D. remedy for years." It will take away the itch the instant you apply it.

In fact, we are so sure of what D.D.D. will do for you that we will be glad to let you have a 5¢ bottle on our guarantee that it will cost you nothing unless you find that it does the work.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOLS.

May Be Established In Every County In The State.

It is given out from Lexington that by the co-operation of the United States Government and the State of Kentucky, through the College of Agriculture of the State University, plans have been perfected by which a system of instruction in agriculture can be established in each county and the farmers be taught modern methods without leaving their own homes. Indeed the experiments and demonstrations will be made on the farms themselves and the farmer can thus have the problems of advantage and interest to him worked out upon his own place, and to the improvement of his own property. It is thought that by far the most effective method of improving agricultural conditions in Kentucky will be by thus bringing the instruction to the farmer's own door instead of by means of lectures at special points and through communications by mail, which have been the only method heretofore employed.

It is sought to put the system of agricultural instruction practically on the basis of the present public school system, and each county can have an agricultural instructor who will devote his attention exclusively to that county, and each group of twelve counties will have a supervisor to whom the instructors report and the supervisors will in turn report through one of the three main divisions into which the work has been divided to the directors of agricultural extension at the College of Agriculture at the State University. —Farmers Home Journal.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS

Because It's for One Thing Only, and Lancaster People Appreciate This

Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success. Doan's Kidney Pills are for one thing only.

For weak and disordered kidneys. Here is reliable evidence of their worth. Mrs. A. Camden, Rowland, Ky., says: "At the time I began using Doan's Kidney Pills about two years ago I was suffering intensely from kidney complaint. When I stooped I could hardly straighten unless someone gave me assistance. Dark spots often floated before my eyes and my head pained me until I was almost crazy. A neighbor told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a box. I took them according to directions and they helped me from the first. My system is now as free from kidney complaint as if I had never had it."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

No Profit in Alligators. The difficulty about raising alligators to supply the demand for the animals and skins is that they do not attain full growth for about 100 years. The skin of the six or seven-year-old animal is available, however, for many practical purposes. There is one on a farm at Palm Beach which measures 18 feet in length and is said to be about 900 years old. There are several of these farms in operation at the present time, but the industry will not be really profitable until the wild alligators become scarcer.

Stop Hair Falling to-day.

It won't cost you a cent to prove that you can stop falling hair and prevent baldness, for R. E. McRoberts & Son will supply you with a bottle of PARISIAN Sage and if you are not satisfied with the result they will refund the full purchase price.

The same guarantee applies to dandruff, splitting hair, faded hair or scalp itch. PARISIAN Sage is the most delightful, refreshing and invigorating hair dressing in the world. It preserves the natural color of the hair and imparts to it a glossy appearance that all admire. Large bottle 50 cents at dealers everywhere. The girl with the Auburn hair on every package.

Time Saved.

In a large family, where there are many children, much loss of time and annoyance is saved if, before putting stockings into the wash each week, each person will tack the two stockings of each pair at the heels, says Suburban Life. There is no trouble in trying to mate them afterward, as each person may use a different colored thread.

Breathe Hyomei And Find Catarrh.

If you really want to get rid of vile Catarrh why not give Booth's HYOMEI treatment a fair trial.

R. E. McRoberts is authorized to refund your money if you think you have not been benefited, and on that basis every Catarrh victim in Lancaster ought to start to banish Catarrh this very day.

HYOMEI is a soothing, healing antiseptic air made from Australian Eucalyptus and other antiseptics; it kills Catarrh germs and contains no poisonous drugs. Simple instructions for use in each package. Complete outfit, $1.00, extra bottles, 50c.

Carrying the Matter Too Far.

"There seems to be a great deal of ill feeling between the Twilchers and their next-door neighbors, the Quinleys."

"Yes, indeed. Why, Mrs. Twilcher gave her little boy a sound spanking simply because he caressed the Quinley cat."

NOT AN EXAMPLE.

Bronson—The man who succeeds is the one who holds to his opinion in the face of all opposition. Woodson—I don't know about that; a baseball umpire doesn't get such a large salary.

Great Fun.

Merrilla Gray Has lovely eyes; She shops all day And nothing buys.

Casualty.

"Do you think it would be wicked to go fishing on Sunday?" "Well, that would depend on whether the fish were biting or not. I don't see how it could be any more wicked to watch a cork floating on a stream on Sunday than it would be to watch a cloud sailing in the sky."

Provisional.

"You drifted about for ten days on a raft?" "Yes." "Did you suffer much from hunger?" "So much so that we ate the sail which one of the men had rigged up." "Ate the sail?" "Yes. It was a leg-of-mutton sail."

Perfectly Satisfied.

"I weighed her pets daily," said the drug clerk at the summer resort. "Her canary gained half an ounce and her pug dog gained two pounds." "And the lady herself?" "Oh, she lost seven pounds. But she's well pleased with the place."

Easily Distinguished.

"You can easily tell a man who has been holding office from one who is looking for it," said Senator Sorghum. "How?" "The first always points with pride and the other always views with alarm."

HIS ARMS.

Tom—What did she do when you kissed her? Dick—She was up in arms in a moment.

The Good Old World. The angels are calling. 'Tis well to believe it; But the world looks too good For a sinner to leave it.

When Noah Was a Sailor. Noah chuckled. "First summer I haven't had to water my wife's rubber plant," he cried. Gladly he watched the deluge.

The Inference. Jones—I want to deposit the sum of $10. Receiving Teller (who knows him)—What! Have you sold your car?

the driveway during the greater part of the year makes a convenient storage for wagons and farm implements. As the distance is not too great to back out with an empty wagon, there are doors at only one end of the driveway. This should make the barn warmer in winter, writes W. A. Radford in the Farmer's Mail and Breeze. A space is left over the driveway for putting hay up into the mow overhead. This mow is capable of holding 15 or 20 tons of hay.

PROPER FEED FOR THE COLT

Something More Than Mere Filling Is Required by Young Animal—Don't Use the Whip.

(By MAY PEINTNER.)

A young and growing animal requires something more than mere filling. It must have nutritious and tissue-building, blood-making food. It is much easier and cheaper to put two years' growth on a colt the first year of its age than it is to "make up" for a year's loss of growth in two or three years. A good growth the first year of a colt's life costs less than at any other age and is twice as valuable to the breeder—a fact that is too often ignored. Spare the feed and spoil the colt is surely true. In training the colt do not use the whip simply because you have it. It is a very poor driver who makes a blow the starting signal. See that there is feed and water in abundance and a clean, dry bed.

Don't neglect the shoeing; it is vital on slippery roads or pavements; nor the blanket in cold weather, when the colt is standing out. Don't overload nor let the colt stand in the sun, nor where water drops on him. We believe that down in the heart of every man is some kindness and sense of justice.

To Avoid the Runty Pig.

Runty pigs stand a poor show at the feeding trough with a bunch of their husky brothers and sisters. As they are crowded out of place naturally they do not get enough to eat to keep them growing and they stay runty.

A trough arranged with V-shaped partitions set strongly in the trough would give the little fellows an equal show with the big ones, and the weaker ones could get their share of food. A handy man can make such a trough arrangement in an hour or so, and the even growth of his pigs would more than pay for his trouble.

Robinson-Tindler.

By far the most interesting social event of the autumn season is the marriage of Francis Crenshaw Tindler, second daughter of Elder F. M. Tindler to Mr. Benjamin F. Robinson. The wedding occurred last evening (Wednesday) at 8 o'clock at the Christian church, the father of the bride pronouncing the ceremony.

The church was artistically decorated in palms and trailing green that formed a background at the altar, and an aisle for the groom's approach from the rear. Large bows of blue and yellow tulle designated seats reserved for relatives and intimate friends, at 7:30 a musical program was opened by Nevin's "Venetian Love Song" played by Miss Letty Mae McRoberts, after which Mr. J. M. Farra sang "Till the Sands of the Desert Grow Cold." Modulated harmonies carried the organ into "Evening Star" and "Barcarolle" then into the accompaniment of "Oh Promise me" effectively sung by Mr. Farra, "Call me Thine Own" was played at the approach of the bride party.

At 8 o'clock to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march the party entered the church. Down the left aisle proceeded two ushers Messrs Louis Tindler and Bascom Ford, followed by Mr. J. P. Oasthuizen, of Lexington, groomsmen. The bridesmaid, Miss Shelby Mason, carrying an arm bouquet of yellow cysanthemums, and beautifully gowned in yellow chasemise, followed Mr Oasthuizen. In the right aisle were Messrs Clay Kauffman and Joe Price preceding the maid of honor Miss Della Tindler whose gown was beautiful, created of blue chasemise, draped in embroidered net with lace trimmings. She carried yellow cysanthemums. She was followed by the bride, entering alone, the design of her beautiful bridal gown was perfectly suited to her youthfulness, being made without train and the graceful bridal veil becomingly held with a pearl Juliet Clasp, the dress was of white chasemise with Duchess lace and pearls. She carried bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Entering from a rear aisle Elder Tindler and the groom, accompanied by his brother Mr. Curry Robinson, acting as best man, awaited the bride at the altar. The impressive rite ceremony was used to unite the happy couple. After the Marriage Mr. and Mrs. Robinson left for an extended trip.

A beautiful display of varied and valuable gifts speaks the wide circle of admiring friends who wish this happy couple of continuous happiness. One of the delightful prenuptial functions was a reception given the bride party at the bride's home on Tuesday evening, an interesting feature of which was the cutting of a beautiful wedding cake.

Taxes are due. Come in and pay them promptly and avoid the penalty which goes on in a short time. Water rates will also soon be due and must be paid promptly. Have your money ready. The improvements to the streets, the expense of keeping them up and the general running expenses of the town takes money just the same as it takes money to run your business. We have taken advantage of the low price of coal prevalent early in the season and purchased a sufficient supply to run the water plant through the winter. This coal must be paid for. AN INCIDENT AND INTERESTING SEQUEL

We were all sitting on the clubhouse porch enjoying the cool sea breeze and sipping—well, one of the men had tea with lots of lemon in it—but the others, their favorite thirst eradicator. Of course, all we women had tea—or lemonade.

We had been telling stories about various curious experiences that had befallen us, when Mrs. Preston gave the following:

"One hot afternoon early in September I was walking up Park avenue, after interviewing one of the most prominent women in 'Society,' who was in town getting together her daughter's trousseau—who was to be one of October's early brides.

"I was feeling mighty blue; the pretty frocks, masses of lace lingerie, lustrous satin and priceless lace that would be combined in the wedding gown brought back visions of my own wedding, and my heart grew bitter with the thoughts of years of suffering which followed my own great day.

"Mentally I cursed the man I had married, cursed him for a weak fool, who had allowed a brilliant mind to become so paralyzed with drink that I, his wife, had to take the halcyon away from their drink-crazed father and leave them in the care of strangers while I worked all day and often until late at night recording the 'doings of the rich and great.'

"What right had some people to so much money when I had to toil unceasingly for just enough to feed and clothe us decently?

"It was a long walk back to the office, and I had just one nickel in my purse. Should I spend it for carfare and horror from some one at the office enough to take me home? Or walk? But it was so hot and I was tired; besides, I hated to hallow.

"There were few people on the street at that hour, but there approached a large, good-looking man, neatly dressed, who stopped in front of me, saying, 'Lady, could you lend me a nickel?'

"I was so surprised I halted and stared at him.

"I hate to ask you for it, lady,' he continued, 'but I want to get home to my wife and little girl, and it will take me hours to walk it.'

"I inquired if his wife was ill. 'I don't know. She wasn't well when I left home a week ago,' and then, because I still stared at him (my mind could not conceive a big, strong, well-dressed man stopping a woman in the street and asking for 5 cents), he told me that he had been on a spree for a week and had spent his last dollar for a bath so he would be at least decent to go home. 'But I must get home,' he said; 'I must get home to the wife and baby, and I thought you would give me carfare.'

"Opening my purse, I took out my one nickel. 'See,' said I, 'this is all I have. When I give it to you I must walk sixteen blocks back to the office where I work. I have to work to take care of myself and two little children because my husband is a drunkard. Because, when he had a young wife and baby girl he went on sprees and stayed away from home and his business for days at a time. Take this nickel and go home to your wife; but tell her it was a woman who gave you carfare, a woman who will help her when she has to give up her home and go out into the world to work through your intemperance.'

"That was fifteen years ago. Yes, today, sitting opposite me on the train coming up here, I noticed a very handsome gray-haired man, evidently with his wife, a frail-looking woman with silvery hair and kind brown eyes.

"Several times the gentleman looked searchingly at me and spoke to his wife, and I confess I was becoming a bit annoyed, for they were apparently discussing me. I felt it rather than saw it.

"Presently the gentleman came over to a vacant chair next mine and, begging my pardon, asked me if I remembered ever seeing him before.

"At my negative reply he repeated the incident that happened so many years ago, but before he had finished I told him that I remembered it perfectly. 'Madam, I do not know who you are, but I want you to meet my wife. She wishes to thank you for sending me home to her the day I asked you for carfare and you gave it to me.'

"His wife is charming, and he probably you all know him—he is one of the leading judges in the state.

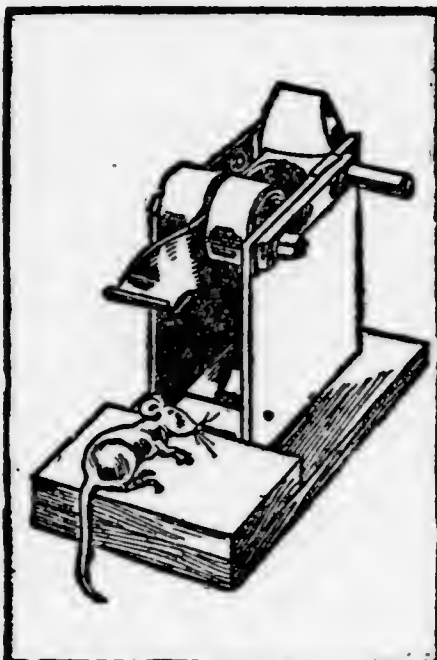

"Yet I had thought he wanted that nickel for a drink. Sometimes our charity is not misplaced."

REPEATING TRAP KILLS RATS

One Winding of New Device Will Destroy Fifteen or More of Disease-Spreading Rodents.

Did you ever hear of a repeating rat trap? One has been invented by an Illinois man, who declares that with one winding it will kill 15 or more of the disease breeding pests and kick each one out of the way. The general design of the trap is shown in the cut. When a rat steps on the platform in front his weight releases the trigger and striking arm, operated by a powerful spring, hits him a deadly uppercut and throws him several feet away with the same motion. It virtually kicks him to death. Another feature of this trap is the fact that no scent is left on it to warn any wise old rodent that it is an apparatus to be avoided. A bait, of course, is set inside the opening, under the striking arm, and where rats are particularly numerous they will not be scared off by the sight of dead comrades in the vicinity.

PREPARING FOR SPRING WORK

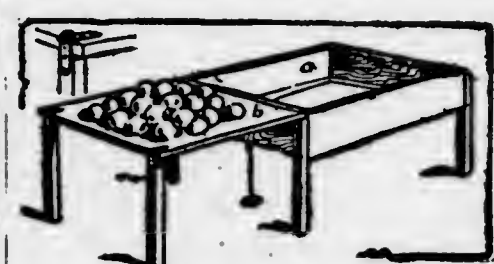

Farmers Should Have All Farm Implements in Good Order to Begin Work at Once.

Have the plows, harrows, cultivators, drills and rollers in order for spring work. Lay in a few extra plow points and harrow teeth. Have the harrow teeth sharp. Extra whiffletrees and some good hame strings should be provided. The seed oats, corn, clover and grass seeds should be bought this month, so no time need be lost when the season opens, says a writer in the Baltimore American. Buy and haul the fertilizer you need now. If the plow or harrow is worn out, it will pay to buy a good steel plow and a spring tooth harrow and a two-horse cultivator. A corn planter and a grain drill may be hired for 25 cents an acre. If you only plant ten acres in corn and seed a few acres to oats it will be cheaper to hire than to buy these implements. Only buy those implements you really need. Farm sales take place this month, and good implements may often be had at less than half the original price. It will pay to buy if you need the implement, but do not buy it because it is cheap, nor because you can buy it on time. The note soon falls due and it often comes due when you are short of funds. Do not ask your neighbor to go security, if the bank will not accept the note with your wife as indorser, do not buy. This is sound advice and if followed will save you lots of trouble and considerable money. Do not go security for anyone. It is wrong, as you may ruin yourself, and oftentimes your family as well. A good-natured, easy-going farmer had better remain away from farm sales.

FIT VEGETABLES FOR MARKET

Washing Tank and Drying Table Is Very Useful in Preparing Beets, Carrots, Potatoes, Etc.

A washing tank and drying table is very useful in preparing vegetables for market. Beets, carrots, potatoes, etc., should be freed from soil before placing them on sale and I know nothing so handy as this arrangement.

Washing Tank and Drying Table.

writes Mrs. H. O. McPherson in the Farm and Home. The table, h, is hinged to the tank. The legs are also hinged, and when not in use are folded over on the table and the table folded over so as to form a lid for the tank, the legs folding inside of the way. The bottom of the tank should be lower at one corner with a hole to let out the water after using, by withdrawing a plug or stopper.

Leap Year by Proxy

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press)

"I'm never going to get married," said Kitty to her Aunt Katherine.

Aunt Katherine, who was very tall and beautiful, and who was always dressed in sweeping black gowns, looked at Kitty severely through her gold lorgnette.

"And you are 20?" she asked.

"Men aren't worth bothering over," said Kitty. "Now, there's Rodney Hodge. He's the only man who is really worth while, yet I wouldn't be afraid to say that he'll never propose."

Aunt Katherine lighted the candles over the fireplace. It was one of her fads to spend the evening at candle-light. Electricity was for the mob, she said.

"Why should you care?" she asked, "what Rodney Hodge does? You are not in love with him, are you?"

Kitty composed herself. Well, you see, I could be in love with him," she said sagely, if he were not such a clam. "He's so—so fine, Aunt Katherine."

"Yes, he is fine," said the older woman.

Kitty's little face was very grave now, and her little hand was laid in earnestness on Miss Severance's knee.

"And so," Aunt Katherine finished for her, as she took the little hand in her firm clasp, "and so, my little Kitty, if you were a man and Rodney Hodge were a girl, you would ask Rodney to marry you?"

"Yes," Kitty whispered.

"Then—why not ask him—anyhow?" said Aunt Katherine. Kitty gave her a startled glance. "Why—Aunt Katherine!" she stammered, "you don't mean—"

"It's leap year,"

"Oh, I knew you were joking," Kitty's voice had a note of relief in it.

She changed the subject after that, and Kitty went off to her leap year dance happily.

Miss Severance sat long by the fire, then she picked up the receiver of the telephone and gave a number. When the answer came, she said: "Is that you, Bronson? This is Katherine Severance. I want to ask you to come and see me. Yes, tonight. Yes—it's important. You will? It's very good of you. At nine, then?"

She paced the room restlessly, as she waited, and when her caller came, a gray-haired, stately man, she welcomed him with a laugh that was slightly nervous.

"It's about Kitty," she said. She was seated in a high-backed chair which gave her a queenly dignity. "I want to make a sort of leap year proposal by proxy, Bronson."

He looked at her keenly. "You mean Rodney?" he asked.

"Yes. Kitty likes him and I think he loves her. He did years ago. But—but he hasn't asked her to marry him."

"And he will not!" sternly.

"Why not?"

"He shall not suffer as I have suffered," was the quiet answer. "You know how I stalked all my happiness, Katherine, on your answer years ago and you know, too, that I lost. I will not have my boy hurt in a like fashion."

"Kitty—Is sweeter than I," said Miss Severance, "and I think she cares."

"No one could be sweeter than you were," the old man turned on her fiercely, "until you learned to break men's hearts."

"And to break my own," said Katherine Severance.

Out of a deep silence he asked: "Then you, too, have suffered?"

"Yes. Do you remember a leap year dance and a girl all in white, with silver slippers and a rose in her hair?"

"You," he breathed.

"And she made up her mind that she would tell the man whom once she had spurned that she had changed—and—and—that he was the only man in the world—for her. But she was proud—and she could not, for he gave her no opening—and, after all, she was a woman—and a woman cannot woo."

"Katherine," he said, and his voice broke, "dear girl, if you had spoken, how much of happiness life would have held for us."

And tonight when Kitty went to her leap year dance, all the past rolled back on me and I wanted her to be happy with a man like you. It is too late now for us—but surely they—"

He laughed like a boy. "Too late? Why, how old are you, Katherine?"

"Forty."

"And I am fifty-two. And we're young, dearest. And the world is before us. Do you think Kitty and Rodney are the only ones in the world who can live and love?"

He took her hands masterfully in his. "Look at me, Kate," he said, "and tell me if you want to leave all the happiness to Kitty?"

That night when Kitty came home she was radiant.

"Aunt Kate," she cried, as her aunt, wrapped in a white silk kimono, met her at the top of the stairway, "I'm the happiest woman in the world."

"No," said Aunt Kate, mysteriously, "you're not the happiest. Because there are others."

EDNA'S BURGLAR WAS NOT A REAL ROBBER

By MOLLY McMASTER.

Edna sat up and listened. Her heart was beating with almost breathless rapidity from having been awakened from sound sleep. It was the third time during the night that she sat up to listen, and as she sank back at this hour of three in the morning she told herself it was only the strangeness of an unfamiliar room that kept her so keenly alive to sounds.

She closed her eyes but opened them again. Surely some one was just outside her window! The sound came from below as if the intruder were attempting to climb up the great vine that covered the side of the house.

Edna became strangely calm. She stepped from her bed, and in the darkness slipped on her pink silk hose and satin slippers that she had left carelessly lying after an evening of dancing. Then she drew on her dainty pink tea gown.

Edna went cautiously toward the window and peeped through the mass of vines that clustered about the window frame. Her heart fluttered. A man was making his way slowly and by painful stages to her window.

She paused a moment wondering whether to wait until he reached the top and fell him with a chair or to throw something weighty down on his unsuspecting head.

Edna chose the latter method. She turned in the dark and by light of a pale moonbeam caught sight of the great water jug on the stand. "That would certainly kill him," she told herself with a shudder; "I can not possibly do that." She would empty the contents of the jug on that ascending head.

The man was several yards from the ground; for a second Edna hesitated. Perhaps even then the fall might prove fatal.

"But I can not be murdered in my bed," she shuddered again and with a burst of courage leaped far out of the window and spilled the water with sure aim on the burglar's head.

She heard a muttered remark, a heavy thud and the pitcher dropped from her nervous fingers. Her courage completely gone, Edna did her first feminine act of her escape; she dropped in a heap just within the window.

The man, suddenly foiled in his ascent, picked himself up with many short and terse words falling from his lips. He shook himself like a shaggy terrier, but he was drenched to the skin.

Looking up to see the cause of his downfall the man gasped. Lying across the window sill like a pale wedge of moonbeam was the arm of a woman.

With almost superhuman strength he sprang toward the vine and climbed to the window ledge.

He drew himself within the room and picked up the girl tenderly.

Being without resources of his own and knowing not what to do, he rushed out in the darkened hall and made his way down the stairs with his precious bundle.

Groping his way toward a door he hammered with his feet lest he drop the unconscious girl from his arms.

The door in the hall opened and a very frightened girl in blue kimono peeped out.

"Jack! Danvers," she screamed. "Have you lost your mind? She glanced with frightened eyes at her brother. His clothes were dripping, and his face white and stern.

"No! But switch on the light and look at what I found in my room!" He followed her into the room and laid the girl on the couch. It seemed to Edna the action was reluctant. She began gradually to regain consciousness and opened her eyes. They lit first upon the stalwart big man whom she had taken for a burglar, and from him to the girl in the blue kimono.

The latter rushed to Edna's side and gathered her into her arms. "Edna darling," she asked tenderly, "what in the world have they been doing to you? And why is my brother Jack all soaked and tearing madly through the pitch dark house with you?"

"I took—your brother for a burglar—and emptied the contents of the water jug on him. I am so sorry," she said prettily.

"It is all my fault," he told her quickly. "I was a silly chump to come out to the country at this time of night when the family would all be in bed, but somehow I just wanted to wake up in my own room and hear the birds sing. I often take a fancy of that kind, and when everyone is asleep I sometimes get in by climbing up the vine."

"I never even dreamed of your coming out for the week-end when I put Edna into your room," Mary Danvers was saying.

"It does not seem so terrible, sis," laughed Jack. "Does it to you?" He turned to Edna.

Edna glanced quickly up at him, and the color rushed swiftly up to meet her downcast eyes.

He gave a little helpless shrug of his shoulders that brought an ache to Edna's throat. He threw a glance at his sister and turned to leave the room.

Edna jumped up suddenly and flung herself into his arms. "Of course it did not seem terrible, dear," she cried swiftly. "But everything else has seemed terrible since I broke my engagement to you, and if you still love me—"

There was no need for words.
